THE COOLEST SUMMER RETREAT IN JAPAN.

Fift en miles from Hakodato there is a summer retreat that ought to tempt multitudes of visitors from all the southern ports of Japan as well as from every settlement in China. When we unfortunate folks are stewing in our offices and panting for a breath of cool wind, people living at "the Lakes." as this retreat is called, find the weather just pleasantly hot and spend the whole day in the open air drinking in health and sunshine. There is sport, too, of no mean description, but upon this attraction we do not dwell, because without actual experience it is never safe to speak of fishing or shooting in Japan. The main point is that whereas lack of comfortable accommodation kept people away from the Lakes in former days, there are now two capital hotels there; one in Japanese style, the other built to accommodate foreigners. In the latter the tourist can have everything he wants, from a hot or cold bath to a backsteak. Then, if anyone wishes for mineral baths - and what temptation so strong is there to Japanese -he can have thou at Amagawa, which is only miles from Hukodate. There, also, two goo comfortable hotels have been built, with billiard rooms and "all the appliances." We therefore recommend our readers to include the northern island in their list of sligible summer retracts. They can be sure of finding there, at any rate, perfect weather, plenty of ozone, and good ac-

LONDON, 28th May: In the House of Commons this evening, Mr Edmund Robertson. Liberal member for Dundee, moved to reduce the Foreign Office vote, the purpose of the motion being to take the judgment of the House in the matter of the absence of Lord Lytton, the British Ambassador to France, from the opening ceremonies of the Paris Exposition. The withdrawal, Mr. Robertson thought, was the result of prearrangement in view of the simultaneous action of the representatives of other powers ordering their representatives to hold themselves aloof from

Sir James Ferguson, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, denied that Lord . Lytton's absence was due to any prearrangement with continental Governments. San Francisco, 25th May. A dispatch from Victoria to-day, stating that the entire British fleet now in British Columbia waters, will shortly proceed to Behring Sen, created considerable discussion among naval officors here. Questions, however were asked in the House of Commons to-night. Sir George Baden Powell urged the Government to propose some modus vivendi whereby without prejudice to the claims of the various parties concerned, sealing may be fairly conclucted this season and steps be immediately taken to arrange for a lasting settlement. James Ferguson replied that the Government was awaiting despatches from the British Minister in Washington, who was fully conversant with the question. Mr. Gourley asked whether it was true that a British warship would be despatched to Behring Sea to protect British sealers from capture by the United States craisers. Sir James Ferguson ruplied in the negative.

THE SIMOAN TREATY.

BEELIN, 30th May. The provisions of the treaty concluded at the Samoan conference are substantially as follows The Government of Samos is to be exclusively native in its composition, and none of the treaty powers will have any voice in the local Government of Apia, further than that granted them in the general control of the Samoan Islands. The leading clause in the treaty, insures the absolute autonomy of the Samoon Islands, guaranteeing to the natives not only full influence in every governmental body, but restricting the power from representation upon the Samoan council or ministry. The treaty further provides for a sort of advisory council to consult with the native king when ever necessary. In view of the large commercial interests of the United States and Germany, each of these countries will be allowed a full-fledged member, but England's representative will act only in the character of an arbiter or umpire when the German and American ministers fail to agree. A land court or commis sion is provided by the treaty whose business will be to examine into the titles of Samoan real estate and settle the many disputed claims that foreigners have set up in Samon, and generally to set at rest all questions as to the ownership of land. The Islands are to be governed by a native king and a vicercy, elected by the Samoans. These two officers, together with the ped heavy seas, washing the captain and two chicis of the Samoan families or clans, wil compuse the Upper House, of native Legislature. The Upper House is styled Taimu, the Lower House or Faipule, is to be made up of native Samouns, chosen by the people upon the basis of one representative for every 2,000 people. The treaty guarantees the restoration of the status quo ante and the rehabilitation of Malleton as King of Samon. An outling of a tariff schedule is also embraced in the trents Its terms are general, and provide for change, after the expiration of certain periods. The provisions of the several treaties now in existence between the Powers and Samos as to coaling stations set apart upon the Islands are reenacted in this treaty. A separate station is allotted to each power. Each Government shall also be at liberty to hoist its flag on the ground where the station buildings will be erseted, but the sovereignty of the Government of Samos over the harbours shall not in any way be abridged or prejudiced thereby. The German demands for a large indemnity from the Samoans for the destruction of German lives and property, in a sum which would have impoverished the Samoans for years to come was withdrawn, and the treaty provides for the payment of a nominal sum only
